The Mexican Claims Commission

WASHINGTON July 17 —The umpire of the Mexican Claims Commission has decided that the Mexican Government is responsible for property of American citizens destroyed during the French invasion He also decides that Americans doing business in Mexico are entitled to indemnity, not being Mexican citizens

Commissioners have decided that the Miramon and Salvagas governments in Mexico during 1858 59 were not lawful governments, and also that the American government is not responsible for depredations committed by the Confederate troops on Mexican citizens. The Commission has allowed an important claim founded on a contract with the Mexican Republic It is supposed that it will allow all valid claims for military and other supplies furnished by our citizens to Mexico during the French invasion The great question has yet to be disposed of as to the jurisdiction of claims founded on bonds issued by Mexico, and held by American citizens This question has not been passed upon by the commission or umpire

INTERIOR CALIFORNIA DISPATCHES.

Campaign Paper at Sacramento

SACRAMENTO July 16 —The Democratic city club met yesterday and resolved to provide for the publication of a campaign paper It is reported that $1 000 has been subscribed E M Martin, S Greer and the President of the club (Stephens) are entrusted with the execution of this design

The Pittsburg Leader an independent paper puts the following question which we should like to see answered by some of the so called free trade organ

What sort of a tariff is that precisely, which calls for such duties on imports as will provide "a large portion of the revenues needed to defray the expenses of the Government to pay the interest on the national debt and the principal as it matures, and yet that has to be so adjusted as not to prejudice but promote the interests of every section and branch of industry Doesn't mean protection

The San Joaquin Republican (Dem) believes that the colored vote in California will approximate two thousand Giving their political status, it says Of the probable 2 000 votes, we doubt if 100, or even 50, will be cast for other candidates than those who have received their nomination from the Republican party In this city and county there are probably 250 colored voters, and we do not know a single one of them who will not vote the Republican ticket.

LAST NIGHT'S DISPATCHES.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN]

The ship Nahwan from Bombay, foundered in the Indian ocean Thirty lives were lost

EASTERN STATES.

New York Dispatch

NEW YORK, July 17 —The tornado that passed over this city yesterday afternoon did great damage to shipping in the harbor of New York

Cyrille Dion has issued a notice in which he challenges any one in the world to play him a game of three ball or French carom billiards amount of stakes to be not less than $500 a side It is thought in billiard circles that an international contest will be the result of the challenge

CALIFORNIA

From San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO, July 17 —The weather is fine and warm.

The town is filled with rumors concerning the Central Pacific and the California Pacific rail roads One rumor asserts that the Central has sold out to the California another that the California has sold to the Central It is known that Milton S Latham has gone to London on business connected with the California Pacific It is rumored that the surveying party on the extension of the California Pacific from Davisville to Salt Lake is called back Well posted people think that neither road has sold out or will sell out, but that the Central, commencing the air line from Oakland to Sacramento, compels the California Pacific to hedge by, building their line from some point at or about Vallejo to Sausalito and it is not improbable that something of that kind will be shown immediately

The Colorado arrived to day from Panama with a few passengers, $165 000 in treasure and a cargo valued at $100,000 including 180 000 pounds wool

Stock market rather strong to-day, generally showing an advance

THE TERRITORIES

The party of journalists on the way hither from the East are coming from St Paul through the Territories They were to leave St Paul on the 1st inst and probably be at Puget Sound in four weeks

The opposition between steamboats on Puget Sound has ended The Starrs have bought off Wright and Finch for three years Fare by the North Pacific from Olympia to Victoria is $5 Meals 75 cents

It is understood that the line of the North Pacific road, as finally determined on, passes through Central Dakota, reaching the Missouri near the Mouth of Hart river, and crossing the Red river south of the mouth of the Cheyenne

A gentleman just from Puget Sound says that that region is languishing, that the inhabitants are doing nothing but talk in a crazy way about "terminus," and that there is no hope for any growth over there until this delusion is dispelled and people are brought to realize that this "terminus question has little or nothing in it

POLITICAL NOTES

Among the delegates from the Fifth District to the Ohio Republican State Convention were six Germans who never before acted with the Republican party

A New York Tammany member of Congress has been sent by the Democracy to interview Jeff Davis, and induce him to change the tone of his speeches if he proposes to make any more.

The Louisville Courier regrets that Toombs don't like the "new departure," and thinks he ought to get up one of his own, for which purpose it suggests "ten cents worth of strychnine"

The Augusta Constitutionalist admits that the controlling sentiment among the Democrats of Georgia is to waive useless discussion, and bide their time to right what they call wrong accepting no usurpation as a finality

Those Iowa Democrats who object to the new departure, in their call for a new Convention, appealed to all the followers of Thomas Jefferson to rally round the old standard, and save the Democracy from the hands of those who are trying to dress it up in the old clothes of Republicanism

The Cincinnati organ of the Western Democracy intimates that the Tammany Ring are simply public plunderers, who ought to be shot—politically The Savannah organ of the Southern Democracy intimates that the triumph of the party under such miserable ward politicians if they should unfortunately be suffered to take the lead, would be nothing more nothing less than enlarging the field of plunder to such people as Fisk, Jr , and his confederates of the Ring

MRS FAIR ON FREE LOVE —A reporter of San Francisco has interviewed Mrs Laura D Fair, and in the course of her conversation, she uttered the following as her position on the free love doctrine, the interrogator having asked her "Do you believe in the free love idea you advanced on the stand?" Said the condemned woman

"I advanced no such idea sir and I do not believe in free love doctrines I loved Mr Crittenden with my whole heart and soul If I had believed in the free love doctrine why would I have insisted for seven long years for a marriage with him? I had his love and I had him Time and again he told me that I was the only women he ever loved—ever could love. I ought to have been happy, but I wanted the sanctity of the marriage tie—not that for a single moment I have ever considered that I committed sin with him I did not, I loved him as a wife, lived with him as a wife I loved him for his mind Had he been paralyzed and helpless it would have been the same to him—it was not the body I loved, but the soul Had I been the passionate, sensual women they attempted to make me out I would have naturally preferred a young man But for seven years he was my all—I never scarcely spoke to any one else Judge Campbell confused me in my testimony In the sight of God I feel that we were man and wife—there is no marriage where there is no love The mere ceremony does not bind hearts together

Summer Campaigning—A Trip to Siletz Beach

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

SIR Home life having grown monotonous, on the morning of June 29th we started on a pleasure excursion to Siletz Beach After a pleasant drive of about thirty miles we camped on the head waters of the south fork of Yamhill river The first thing of interest that attracted our attention here was an alder tree—supposed to be the largest in the State —measuring almost twelve feet in circumference This tree was first noticed by Rev G C Chandler of McMinnville, in the summer of 1870 The next morning, after a delightful drive of ten miles over a good mountain road we stopped at the first crossing of Salmon river The scenery along this river is romantic, and in some places magnificent We dallied here two days The fishing was fine and the trout superb

For two days after our arrival at the Beach old Neptune seemed to be in one of his angry moods He shook his white mane and roared terrifically But the morning of the fourth of July dawned beautifully—all was calm and the sky cloudless Shotguns and revolvers were loaded and our company fired a sunrise salute We next visited the Point of Rocks, about four miles above our camp The natural scenery at this point is grand Besides a cave of considerable interest, there are numerous tall, rugged old rocks—some of them over a hundred feet high—scattered at intervals over a beautiful sandy beach One, in particular, known as Chimney Rock, attracted our attention It is only a few feet in diameter at the base, tapers gradually to the top and appears to be at least seventy-five feet high

When we returned to camp some happy individual proposed an impromptu celebration The proposition met with universal favor but when the camp was searched, although it contained fifteen tents, the Stars and Stripes were not to be found. We had an orator and some fine musicians in our company but of course we could not "celebrate" without a flag, so we concluded to manufacture one One lady proffered a sheet for the white and another came forward promptly with a blue sunbonnet saying that it was a borrowed one, and that she possessed the spirit of Artemus Ward—he was willing to sacrifice all his wife's relations in the cause of liberty, and she was ready to give away all her friend s sunbonnets, if thereby she could conduce to the pleasure of the company We now had the white and blue, but no red was to be obtained, for although red garments were conspicuous in our crowd unfortunately for our flag, they were not borrowed So we gave up the plan of a formal celebration but I think a merrier or happier company is seldom to be found. We numbered one hundred and four, besides a camp six miles down the beach containing eleven more Our company consisted of Rev S Ashby and family, and J Denney and family of Linn county, A D Dodge and family, of Marion; E L DeLashmutt and family T... Richmond and family, M M Ellis and family, L A Graham and family, John Phy and family, H Hagood and family, of Polk, Major Lean, Miss Wright, T C Bymem and family Wm Rose, Wm Caldwell and family, C C Baker and family, S S Staggs and family, Mrs, Winters and family, C Vaughn and family, M R Whitlow and R T Whitlow of Yamhill, J D Morris and family J O Gustin and family, J Winter and family, Mrs Emerson and family, and Miss Weeks of Washington.

All extraneous etiquette and superficial dignity are laid aside on a trip of this kind, and the consequence is thorough enjoyment It was really amusing to see ladies and gentlemen of all ages playing "blind man s buff," and the "black man, on the beach by moonlight On the morning of the fifth a Portland bound steamer sailed majestically past apparently but a few miles from shore

On the 7th we reluctantly bade adieu to old ocean and started for home When speaking of the Salmon river I forgot to mention the "forest giants growing along its banks Our party measured two dead spruce trees which measured respectively thirty three and forty two feet in circumference There are also two mineral springs along this route worthy of the attention of invalids One on South Fork said to be a specific for consumption and one near the Toll House the water of which, I believe, has never been analyzed It has a pleasant sulphurous taste

We returned home browned and roughed but feeling as if we had a new lease on life Let all who are worn out with home cares go and do likewise BERTHA

The Woman's Cause in Utah

The Corinne (Utah) Journal thinks that women in that Territory are strangely indifferent to their privileges and duties Alluding to an address recently delivered in Corinne by Mrs Pitts Stevens, of San Francisco, that paper says

The most interesting point Mrs Stevens made was in reference to the giving of the ballot to woman in Utah by Brigham Young s Legislature She thought it would prove the "first gun on Sumter" to polygamy We have thought so, too, or at least hoped so, but after watching the use the women of Utah have made of their new found political power for two years, our hopes are not as strong as they were Men are nearly at their wits end with regard to the woman question in view of woman s action in Utah We are told that we shall introduce a moral element into politics with woman Are the established relations of the sexes in Utah indicative of high and pure morals? where polygamy, the worst form of woman slavery is not only enjoyed as a religious duty, but where decency is still further outraged by the toleration of incest? where men change wives or take new ones as often as they tire of those they have, and are true to nothing but their own selfish interests? where men past seventy marry girls of fifteen and where women are fed on the shucks and husks of superstition instead of love? Yet this is what the women of Utah sustain in the exercise of their political power Witness 25 000 of them petitioning Congress for the abrogation of the anti polygamy law Witness their flocking to the polls en masse to vote for their own enslavement mental, spiritual, and physical Good men are more disheartened in their efforts to Americanize Utah by this perverse action of the Utah women than by all the other difficulties of the case combined Men have always been forced to the bullet at last in the assertion of their rights Many have long been of the opinion that it was the only solution of the Mormon imbroglio Some have been led to hope, however, that the moral element to be introduced in politics by women would do away with the use of the barbarous bullet altogether But the result, so far, in Utah, is discouraging And here is a place for Mrs Stanton and the rest to begin the conquest of the country. Let them retrieve the reputation of their sex in Utah and through that sex They have got all they ask, yes, more, for a man born abroad must live in the country five years before he can vote, while the polygamists of Utah have decided, albeit despite the laws of the United States that a foreign born woman has only to marry or be married to a saint to entitle her to vote at once on landing Mrs Stevens' idea of having Miss Anthony settle in Utah and run for Congress is a capital one. Let her come and bring her disciples and marshal a majority of the women of Utah to the polls and vote them against polygamy and incest enjoined in the name of religion and submitted to with the tameness of sheep, and she will have done something to fix the attention of men She will have forced men to acknowledge the justice of woman s claims to superior moral stamina, or intellectual acumen or true instinct, or whatever it may be and the efficacy of this occult power for the correction of the political ills by which we suffer If they can persuade their sisters in Utah to throw off the shackles which man made revelations have fastened upon their limbs and minds, they will have little trouble elsewhere

Prophecies for '72

Already the prophets are beginning to make out their lists of States to be carried by the two parties next year. We attach little importance to the prognostications; we only know that if the Republicans next year carry all the States that they carried in the elections of last year (and there is a probability that they will do even better) they will elect the President. Some readers may however be somewhat interested in knowing how the prophets figure on the result. Three tables like those spoken of above are published by the Philadelphia Press—the first Democratic, the second the guess of the New York Evening Post, and the third its own. The Democratic prophecy claims for that party New Hampshire, makes Connecticut doubtful and gives the rest of New England to the Republicans. It claims New York, Indiana, the three Pacific States and all the old slave States, except South Carolina and Mississippi, conceded to the Republicans. Arkansas, Florida and Louisiana classed as doubtful. It gives the Republicans only four New England States, Michigan, Iowa, Minnesota, Kansas and Wisconsin, with the two Southern States mentioned above. The list then sums up seventeen States for the Democrats with 151 electoral votes, eleven for the Republicans with 72 votes, and nine doubtful, with 94 votes. The most remarkable thing about this prediction is the extraordinary number of doubtful States. When it was just as easy to claim Pennsylvania as Nevada, we wonder that the author of the prophecy did not make that change and set the minds of his trustful followers at rest. The list of the Evening Post is made up with characteristic caution. In New England it classes New Hampshire as doubtful, and gives the other five States to the Republicans. It also adds Pennsylvania, Illinois and Nebraska to those conceded by the Democrats to the Republicans, but makes Mississippi doubtful. It takes from the Democratic claim not only New Hampshire, but Indiana, Missouri, West Virginia, Texas, Nevada and California, all of which except New Hampshire it classes as doubtful, and gives the Democrats Florida and Louisiana, which they do not claim. The vote according to this distribution, would stand

Republican	14 States	110 votes
Democrats	12 "	115
Doubtful	11 "	88

Both these prophecies are based upon the old apportionment, which will not be employed in the election of 1872. The Press gives its own table based upon the probable new apportionment. It claims for the Republicans all New England, all the middle States except New York, Delaware and Maryland, which are conceded to the Democrats, all the northwestern States except Missouri, which is classed as doubtful, and in addition Mississippi, Louisiana and South Carolina. Of the Pacific States Nevada is made doubtful, and the others given to the Democrats. The Democratic list is made up of three middle States, New York, Delaware and Maryland, two Pacific and six Southern States. The summary is as follows

Republican	20 States	193 votes
Democrats	11	114
Doubtful	6 "	43

It is to be said in favor of the last list that it is at least as likely to be correct as either of the others and there is no reason why when a prophecy is to be made, we should not be treated to as pleasant a prospect as circumstances will allow. If the election were to take place this year, says the Boston Advertiser, the Republicans might count with reasonable certainty on carrying twenty two States, with a fair chance of two more, and it will require very serious mistakes on their part to change that result next year. Oregon may as well be dropped out of the Democratic list, as it will pretty surely be Republican.

Blundering Strategy

The last deliverance of the Herald on the course recently assumed by its party, very well illustrates the plentiful lack of candor and general honesty in that organization. After professing to accept the constitutional amendments it deliberately proceeds to put a construction upon them with an avowed intention of nullifying and making them impotent. Further, it declares that its party will abrogate them if it ever gets a chance. Singular way indeed, of accepting them as accomplished facts!"

It is asserted that the results of the war and the adoption of these amendments have made no change whatever in the nature and powers of the General Government. Whether this is so or not, they have greatly changed the Government from the interpretation which the Democratic party gave it when in power. That party interpreted its powers on the theories of the Kentucky resolutions, nullification and secession and by this interpretation led it directly into the vortex of disunion. The results of the war, including the three constitutional amendments, are a 'new departure' from these destructive theories. The powers of the Government are therefore greater than they were held to be ten years ago by the Democratic party. They are great enough at all events for its preservation—just what they were held not to be in 1860–61.

The new movements of the Democracy, as interpreted and explained by Eastern organs of that party, are without doubt sufficiently dishonest. The Herald, however, goes beyond any of them. It attempts to disarm the suspicion of those who believe that its party means reaction or revolution, by professing to recognize the amendments as "accomplished facts" at the same time it endeavors to animate the non accepting wing of its party and stimulate them to a new effort, by telling them that it is their duty to aid the party to get in power first, and then they can nullify or abrogate the amendments afterwards. This sort of strategy is too transparent. It will effectually defeat itself.

The Catholic World, a periodical published in New York recently said

> While the State has rights, she has them only in virtue and by permission of the superior authority, and that authority can only be expressed through the Church—that is through the organic law infallibly announced and unchangeably asserted, regardless of temporal consequences

We know not whether the periodical from which this statement is taken is considered an "official church organ," or not, but we do know that the assumption contained in the above is anti-American, anti Republican, untenable and false.

Remember Hon John A Bingham's appointment to deliver a speech at the Court House this evening, at half past eight o'clock. An opportunity of hearing one of the most impressive, energetic and able orators of the country. Mr Bingham is really one of the strong men of the nation, and has for many years maintained a leading position in Congress.

The Water Question Again

To the Editor of the Oregonian

SIR The Bulletin of Sunday morning contains a communication wherein it is made to appear that the Holly system is not applicable to Portland by reason of the great difference in the elevation of different parts of the city because if all parts are supplied, the creation of power necessary to force the water to the level of the higher elevations—which would be the same as if the whole were to be so forced—would be altogether too costly, the wear and strain on the machinery, and the pressure on the pipes on the lower levels would be too great to admit of the practical working of the system here and it is therefore, condemned as wholly inappropriate to any but a level or gently elevated place.

This would at first sight, seem to be a grave and serious objection. It had been suggested to the writer of this in very much the same formula of words as it is stated in the article in question but as he remembered that the Holly system was in successful operation in places where the grades are higher than here it seemed to him that the company must have discovered some way of meeting and overcoming such objections. He therefore addressed the Holly Company on the subject, and learns from their reply that such is the case, and it is done as follows. One pump, or set of pumps, is used to supply all below a certain elevation, say 100 feet, and another through a separate main, wholly unconnected with the other for the higher levels or a still further division is made if deemed expedient and three sets of pumps used for supplying levels where they attain the height of 100 or more feet, all, of course, operated by the same engine.

This division of the work of the engine is a great saving of power, as will be seen by the following illustration. If the daily supply of water to be given by the machinery is 2,000 0000 gallons, and some of it has to reach an elevation of 200 feet, the power required to raise it is the same as would be necessary to raise 400 000 000 gallons one foot. If now, but one half of this water needs to be raised above 100 feet the saving by division is shown as follows

2,000 000 gallons raised 200 feet equals 400 000 000 gallons raised one foot
1 000 000 x 100 — 100,000 000
1,000 000 x 200 — 200 000 000—300 000 000

100 000 000

There is, therefore, saved the power necessary to raise 100,000,000 gallons one foot, or one-fourth of the whole.

In actual practice here, the saving would be much greater. More than one half the area of Portland is not above 100 feet, nearly one-half is not above 80 feet and about one-third is under 50 feet and as the requirements of water on these low levels are much greater in proportion to area (being more densely populated) than on the higher it might prove to be most economical to divide our supply into three systems, one of not above 50 feet, another 100 or 120, and the other for the highest. It is safe to say that if the whole city were now piped, as suggested in a late article in the Bulletin three fourths of the whole supply of water would be used in the portion below the 80 foot level, and this proportion would hold good for many years, and supposing that it may not be thought best to divide our system into more than two parts the problem for saving of power would be as follows

2 000 000 gallons required in 24 hours three fourths or 1 500,000 gallons at 80 feet, and one fourth 500 000 gallons at 200 feet
1,500 000 x 80 — 120,000 000
500 000 x 200 — 100 000 000

Total — 220,000 000

gallons raised one foot, or 220 400ths of the power that would be required to force the whole 200 feet, as the writer in the Bulletin assumed to be necessary. If, therefore his calculation of the cost of creating power for that work (his article says 200,000 gallons, but I assume that a cipher was accidentally omitted), viz $60 per day, is correct (which I am not prepared either to verify or dispute) it would cost only $33 under the divided plan.

The cost of construction would be somewhat greater, but as the lighter strain on the machinery would obviate the necessity of making it as heavy as would be required in the single service the saving in cost would help pay for the greater weight of metal in the pipes leading to the high elevations. At any rate the reduction in running expenses and wear and tear of machinery would quickly neutralize any increase in first cost.

Applying the Bulletin writer's plan of measuring the capital, which the running expenses would be the interest on, we find that $33 per day would be the interest at 8 per cent on $150 287 50. The additional $100 000 which he adds does not seem to be exactly pertinent in that connection, since it is yet to be shown that the Holly works will cost more than $250 000 for works, pipes and hydrants complete the two last items being about three fourths of the whole cost and being as necessary under the reservoir system as under the Holly.

There are other fallacies in the article which may be allowed to pass at this time, the object of this reply being merely to demonstrate that the natural situation of Portland is not such as to deprive her of the inestimable benefits of Holly's system of fire protection and water supply. S

The French Army

The closest observers and most thoughtful persons in France are apprehensive that the civil wars of that unhappy country are not at an end. A correspondent of the London Times, writing recently of the condition of the French army, gave the following account of causes of dissatisfaction, and of dangerously divided sentiments in the army

It is greatly to be feared that the present temper of the French army may furnish agitators who know how to work upon it with such a weapon. Independently of and in addition to the political differences which set the Republican soldier against the Monarchical or the Imperialist, and which might not alone be strong enough to overcome the military instinct of discipline, there are purely professional grievances at work, which come home in the most direct and palpable fashion to all grades, spreading discontent among officers and men alike. The strain of the war with Prussia has, for a time at any rate completely disorganized the old French army. It ought, for instance to have in round numbers something like fourteen or fifteen thousand officers, and it has now nearly twice that number. How can they all possibly be provided for without every man who is passed over thinking himself the victim of official injustice or neglect? Already there is endless heartburning at the lavish way in which promotion was showered upon the young officers of 'Gambetta's army,' as it is contemptuously called. Bearded veterans, whose breasts are covered with medals, won in African, Crimean, Austrian and Mexican campaigns complain that simply because it was their misfortune to be taken prisoners in the hard fought battles that commenced the Franco Prussian war, and to be kept for months in irksome exile and confinement they find themselves superseded by boys whose military career commenced under Gambetta's ill omened Dictatorship and whose chief recommendations in his eyes were often their youth and a bigoted partisanship scarcely pardonable even in a political point of view and altogether discreditable in a soldier. On the other hand, the lucky winners of premature promotion consider, of course, that they owe it to their merits, and applaud the system which gave it to them as the triumph of genius over red tape and routine. One party learns to associate success, another discomfiture with Republican institutions, and takes its side accordingly. The feeling spreading naturally enough from officers to men. All this discontent might not be politically dangerous in a settled state of society but it certainly supplies perilously combustible matter for clever conspirators to work upon at a moment when everything is unsettled and various forms of government are struggling for the mastery.

PACIFIC COAST DISPATCHES.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

CALIFORNIA

From San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO, July 17.—Hon Julius Vogel Postmaster General of New Zealand, arrived from the East to night and sails for Auckland on the Ajax Wednesday.

A private dispatch from New York announces that the $30 000 prize, Royal Havana Lottery 15th inst, fell to San Francisco. The ticket is divided between fifteen persons. The largest holder has only three twentieths. Six thousand five hundred and four was the winning number.

Prince Bon dze and suite visited Denman school to day and appeared much interested.

The French Opera Bouffe Company has not proved a success. This evening was announced as the last of 'Barbe Bleu,' but the audience was so small that the curtain did not raise and the money was refunded.

It is rumored that the Republican campaign paper established by the State Central Committee is to appear Monday night.

The Democratic County Committee this evening rescinded the resolution passed at the last meeting calling primaries, and adjourned till tomorrow evening. It is understood that they will order primaries under the Porter law but with ward poll lists taken from the Great Register. They refused to entertain the proposition for nominations on the people's plan.

OROVILLE July 17.—John M Coghlan, candidate of the Republican party for Congress from this district and Geo. Pierce, Democratic candidate are discussing the issues of the day to a large crowd this evening.

SACRAMENTO July 17.—J. W Mandeville, Commissioner of Immigration, paid the State Treasurer to day $1 812 State tax on immigrants and vessels entering the port of San Francisco.

A confidence operator, representing himself as a brother of the railroad Crockers, and partner of Goffroth & Spaulding, so worked upon the credulity of S Wilsenski and his daughter as to obtain two valuable diamond rings and $350 from them on the pretense that he was engaged in a lawsuit in which the victims were interested. After this raid, the operator purchased a suit of clothes shaved off his hair and whiskers and was captured on board the Yosemite by Chief Smith just as the boat was about leaving. He is good looking, about 35 years old refuses to give his name, possesses much intelligence and is doubtless a first class graduate in the nefarious art of deception.

An Irish Confederation club was organized last night.

The Pullman car Candia passed westward to day, occupied by Postmaster General Vogel and family of New Zealand.

Among the passengers by the train from the East this morning came Madame Agatha States Italian opera troupe, from New York. The troupe consists of Madame States, who is well and favorably known to the music-lovers of California, Miss Graziella Ridgeway, Prima Donna, Segnore Ciccbi, tenor, Orladdini, baritone, Susini, basso and George musical director. They will open at the Metropolitan Theater, San Francisco, next Monday evening, in 'Ernani.'

Our German visitors from San Francisco left for home by a special train at half past 1 o'clock this P M. They were escorted to the cars by the Sacramento Hussars, and were honored with a salute as the train moved off. While here they created a very favorable impression by their quietness and gentlemanly behavior, and they will be received with pleasure should they ever see fit to make another excursion to Sacramento.

Gen. Thos M Cazenau and staff officers and soldiers of companies E and C, 1st regiment of infantry, returned from Amador to day. Pursuant to order of the Commander in Chief, received Sunday afternoon Adjutant General Cazenau gave the necessary orders to break camp and proceed to Latrop on return homeward. Toward sunset the line was in marching order, and by 11 o'clock had accomplished one half the weary dusty distance to the cars at Latrop. At 3 o'clock A M the march was resumed and Latrop was reached (9 miles) at 9 o'clock. Halt was made until noon, when a special train brought them to Sacramento. Gen Cazenau telegraphed to Bill Hunt, of the Hotel de France, to have dinner for 250 men at 1 o'clock, to be followed by supper at 7 and breakfast at 7 next morning, and immediately provide a resting place for the weary. Hunt was equal to the sudden emergency. In less than 20 minutes after the arrival of the troops they were all seated at a bountiful repast, unequal to any since they partook of their last crust in San Francisco. The officers speak in the highest terms of praise of the conduct of the men while in camp. No acts of insubordination required punishment or rebuke. No infraction of discipline is recorded against the name of either of these San Francisco companies who, if called into action would have as willingly and patriotically upheld the laws of social order as any other in the land. When the full history of the calling forth of troops from San Francisco to quell incipient disorder shall be known, honor will be given to whom it belongs. First Lieut. B Edwards, of Company E, and Second Lieut H. J. Burns, of Company C, and ten men of both companies are still at Sutter creek, in care of stores and camp fixtures, to be forwarded to the headquarters of the regiment. Be it recorded to the honor of your San Francisco soldiers, called suddenly to face uncertain and possibly fatal conflict, that the report of their officers and of the community where they have sojourned three weeks, the praise and blessing of the people follow them.

INTERIOR CALIFORNIA DISPATCHES.

Fire at Marysville

MARYSVILLE, July 17.—A fire broke out at 12 15 P M to day in Swain's sash and blind factory on Fourth street, which burned very rapidly and soon caught the residences of Dr S J S Rogers and ex Mayor Hudson's, on D street, which were totally destroyed as also was the sash factory of Aubry & Harrington, which communicated the flames to the residence of L B Ayer and W C Swain, on Fourth street. Both these buildings were destroyed also two or three buildings on D street. At this time 2 P M, the fire is somewhat under control but there is still great danger that other residences and stores will be destroyed. The Marysville stable is now on fire.

LATER.—The fire this afternoon is the most severe of any that has visited this city for some years. It originated in the sash, blind and planing mill of W C Swain, one door from the corner of Fourth and D streets and owing to the very combustible nature of the contents it was scarcely five minutes before the whole building was in flames as was also the residence of Mr Swain on Fourth street, and in a very short time the residence of Dr Rogers, and the house and barn of ex Mayor Hudson on D street, were enveloped in flames, as were also the three brick stores situated on the corner of D and Fourth streets occupied by Shafer's auction and second hand store, Lallaway's liquor saloon and Rosenbaum's meat market. On the right of Swain's factory on Fourth street, was the sash and blind factory of Aubrey & Harrington and the residence of L B Ayer all of which were totally destroyed. From thence the flames communicated with the wood turning establishment of John Pfefer and two blacksmith shops, which were also destroyed. Alley's livery stable was badly damaged. It was with the greatest exertions of our citizens and the fire department that the water works' hall and the lumber yard of W. K Hudson both of which were on fire several times, were saved, also the residence of Dr Harrington, adjoining that of Mr Hudson on D street. The furniture from the residences burned was mostly saved, but from the factories very little. There were no accidents of a serious nature though several persons received burns and falls, and several were overcome from heat. The total loss is estimated at $100,000 insurance estimated at $30 000.

ARIZONA

Gen Crook's Operations

SAN DIEGO, July 17.—The stage from Fort Yuma this morning brings news of the arrival of the steamer Newbern at the mouth of the Colorado river with U S troops on the 12th.

News from Tucson states that Gen. Crook has taken the field with five companies of cavalry and fifty picked Mexicans with two of the best scouts in the Territory. Gen Crook personally in command. Lieut W. J. Ross is acting field quarter master, and Thos Moore master of transportation.

Our city readers are referred to a communication in another column in which some of the objections which have been urged against the Holly Water system are met and difficulties explained away. The explanation seems quite satisfactory. The system it appears to us will fully stand the test of practical examination.

They who maintain that the Orangemen of New York caused the riot, seem to take their argument from those who asserted in relation to the Watkinds Clarke affair, that Watkinds acted in self-defense. The analogy is obvious.

PICKINGS

The descendants of Lord John Booth of England have put in a claim for the whole of Suffolk county, L. I., amounting, principal and interest to $80,000,000.

'Spray' is the popular drink in the oil regions. It is said to be so mild and gentle in its influence that "Let us spray" is the usual remark when friends meet.

A highwayman in the Western wilds asked his victim whether he would prefer to give up his money or life. The reply being that neither was preferred, the gentlemanly but abrupt robber said, "But, my dear sir, you are wandering from the subject," and took both.

The Chicago Tribune asks and receives $22 000 for a column of advertisements one year. The business men of Chicago are keen to pay it. There is one house in Cincinnati that pays $4 000 a week for advertising. There are several in Cleveland even who pay as high as $10,000 a year. Somehow these men don't break up on liberal advertising never does.

A FRIEND IN NEED.—DR WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY is a friend indeed. Who has not found such in curing all diseases of the lungs and throat, coughs, colds and pulmonary affections and last not least Consumption.

NEWSPAPERARCHIVE®

The Mother of Emperor William and Napoleon I

Well aware of the Queen's beauty and fascinations Alexander thought she might perhaps have some influence over the French Emperor and persuaded her to meet him at Tilsit. Though Louise could never speak of this man, the author of all her country's misfortunes, without a shudder, still, for Prussia's sake she was willing to sacrifice all her personal feelings and dignity. It was a sore trial to this refined sensitive woman to meet as a suppliant the despot who had driven her husband from the throne and cast the foulest aspersions on her honor. Louise says in her diary "What struggles it has cost me God only knows, for, if I do not hate this man I look upon him as the one who has caused the misfortune of the King and the country."

She made two visits to the haughty conqueror. Napoleon acknowledged that the Queen of Prussia was the most beautiful woman he had ever seen, and he declared that, whatever topic of conversation he broached, she managed with the most admirable tact and delicacy to come back to the one theme—Prussia. She implored Napoleon to prove himself indeed a hero by showing mercy to a fallen foe, and if he would make no other concession, at least to restore Madgeburg. Just before dinner Napoleon gave her a rose, she at first refused it, then accepting it with an arch smile, she said, "Yes, but at least with Madgeburg."

"I must observe to your majesty," said Napoleon, gruffly, "that it is I who give and you only who must receive."

The King was present, silent and dejected at the sight of his wife's unavailing sacrifice. As soon as the Queen retired, Napoleon sent for Talleyrand and the Russian Minister, and concluded the treaty on the basis before laid down.

"After all," said he "a fine woman and gallantry are not to be weighed against affairs of State."

At the earnest request of the Russian Emperor, Louise paid a second visit to Napoleon—unsuccessful as the first.

[illegible] at the conclusion of this visit, Napoleon conducting her down stairs, the Queen [illegible] sed, and, pressing the Emperor's hand as [illegible] ade her farewell, said "Is it possible that [illegible] having had the good fortune to be so [illegible] he hero of the age he has not left me [illegible] sfaction of being able to say he has attached me to him for life?"

"Madame," replied the Emperor, "I lament if it is so, it is the effect of my evil destiny."

The royal pair returned to Memel, their [illegible] refuge upon Prussian soil. "Let us be [illegible] and steady, and wait, and God will [illegible] us," said the pious King [illegible] even in humiliation and weakness [illegible] Frederick.

[illegible] retirement at Memel the Queen devoted herself to the education of her children, [illegible] number. The Crown Prince Frederick William was then twelve years of age, and [illegible] much promise. She thought to animate him with her own patriotic spirit and [illegible] country. "You see me weep," she [illegible] him after the battle of Jena. "I weep [illegible] the downfall of my house and country [illegible] these unhappy hours when I am no more and weep such tears for me as I now [illegible] my country. But do not be satisfied [illegible] act, develop your strength. Per[illegible] you may be destined to deliver your [illegible]. Do not let yourself be carried away [illegible] the degeneracy of the age. Be a man! [illegible] the fame of a General, of a hero, if [illegible] not raise your fallen country, then [illegible] learn, as Prince Louise Ferdinand has [illegible]."

This son lived to see his country great among the nations of the earth, but to the second son William, it has been given to re[illegible] with the interest, the ignominy heaped [illegible] by Napoleon—to avenge the [illegible] Germany's loveliest and best-be[illegible] but most unhappy Queen.—Harper's Magazine for July

The Divided Democracy

[illegible] ORGAN DENOUNCES THE ARRO-[illegible] WOULD-BE LEADERS

[From the Louisville Ledger, June 27.]

[illegible] and arrogant assertion of superiority long persisted in begets a belief in the [illegible] of a party making such assertion that [illegible] is real and not assumed. This [illegible] be applied to a portion of [illegible] Democracy. Since the war [illegible] be leaders of the party in [illegible] been arrogant, exacting and [illegible] toward their Southern brethren, and [illegible] been so long inculcating the [illegible] good or politic can come out [illegible] except that which emanates from [illegible] they have got really to be[illegible] at first only assumed. In [illegible] of their superior excellence, [illegible] suggest, and their truculent fol[illegible] the South then loudly demand, that the Southern wing of the party shall be only an appendage to the Northern organization. [illegible] men must make the platforms, select the candidates, and do all other things [illegible] to be done preliminary to the election [illegible] then the Southern Democrats must come [illegible] forward and be voted—and even [illegible] they must do in all humility lest they give offense.

Now the inquiry is pertinent in this connection. What would the Democratic party [illegible] without its Southern allies? And [illegible] hope to be without their [illegible] and hearty fellowship? [illegible] achievement of the party in [illegible] victories but what is the work [illegible] Southern leaders and Southern [illegible] Southern Democracy know [illegible] they should go into the next National Democratic Convention, not defiant [illegible] that manly independence of [illegible] which a consciousness of [illegible] always begets. And if, af[illegible] interchange of opinion has taken place it is determined that the ground selected [illegible] contest by our Northern brethern [illegible] more advantageous position, why, then [illegible] no fear but what the Southern Democrats will fall into line and fight gallantly for [illegible]. But, in the meantime, the intimation that the Northern Democrats possess all [illegible] political virtues, and the denunciations of Southern leaders for differing with them, had as well cease. To say the least [illegible] such a course, it is in very bad taste, and can result in no good.

Sunday Laws

[illegible] has been stated several times in the telegraphic dispatches of late, that the repeal of the Sunday Laws in Ohio would be made an issue in the election in that State this fall. The movement is especially supported by the Germans, and is very strong. In order to give a statement of the course of the agitation, we copy the following from the Volksblatt, a German Republican daily, published at Cincinnati.

The late attempt of the City Council of Chicago to enforce the Sunday laws has, thanks to the energetic unanimous and systematic course of the Germans there against this puritanic proceeding, resulted in the complete revocation of those laws inspired by Puritanism.

The partial and frequently indiscreet execution of the Sunday ordinances on the part of our present Mayor, Mr Davis, will we hope, lead to a similar result. The Judiciary Committee of the Common Council has already reported in favor of the abolishment of the antiquated and anachronistic Sunday laws and the Board of Councilmen has ratified the [re]port by an overwhelming majority. Said report will be submitted to the Board of Aldermen at their next session. We think we may take it for granted that a majority in the above named branch of [illegible] will [illegible] the Sunday ordinances. The Puritans may be loathe to swallow the bitter pill, but then their qualms will be of no avail. The liberal religious views generally as well as the European notions of Sunday, which are gaining more ground in this country from year to year, will force them to cast [illegible] a law that can not be fully executed, and is therefore, demoralizing in its character and calculated to loosen the people's [illegible] and respect for the law. [illegible] laws are based upon certain sectarian views and that very reason [illegible] the Constitution of Ohio does not give any religious sect or ecclesiastical community the right to enforce its peculiar religious views, and morals, and usages through police regulations.

In this country we happily have neither State religion nor a recognized State church so that neither the one nor the other religious sect has a preference, or a right to foist its own peculiar religious views upon the general public.

If the Puritan claims the right to demand of those of another faith to keep the Sunday according to his pattern, why should not the Catholic have the right to insist that non Catholics observe such holidays as Corpus Christi, Ascension Day, the feast of the Apostles, Peter and Paul, at least exteriorly? What is sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander, to use a homely expression. From this standpoint the agitation and opposition against the Sunday laws are fully justified and lie within the sphere of a citizen of this country, free alike in a religious and political point of view.

The Germans of this city especially, should, without distinction of party or religion, with united strength and indefatigable perseverance, labor that this remnant of a bygone age may give room to the modern and liberal view in regard to the celebration of Sunday. What the efforts of the Germans in Chicago accomplished ought certainly to be within the reach of the Germans here. Do not let the Germans of the Garden City outdo us.

A BIT OF HISTORY—VALLANDIGHAM AND JOHN BROWN.—The Springfield Republican says:

Vallandigham will be longest remembered in history, perhaps as one of the champions of slavery who rushed to Harper's Ferry in October, 1859, to extort from John Brown, as he lay there wounded, with the bodies of his dead sons and comrades about him, a confession who his friends were. In the remarkable conversation that followed Vallandigham was one of the chief questioners, and it was to him that Brown replied: "No man me sent here, it was my own promptings and that of my Maker. I acknowledge no master in human form. I want you to understand, gentlemen that I respect the rights of the poorest and weakest of the colored people, oppressed by the slave system just as much as I do those of the most wealthy and powerful. That is the idea that has moved me, and that alone."

Nor did Vallandigham, ignoble as his motive was in catechising Brown, fail to see what the man must be whose answers he heard—and the Ohio Democrat did not fall into wretched drivel of so many Northern Republicans, that the old hero was demented. Returning to Ohio, he bore testimony thus, while Henry Ward Beecher was calling Brown crazy, and the kid-gloved Atlantic styled him "an anachronism": "He is the farthest possible removed from the ordinary ruffian, fanatic or madman, he has coolness, daring persistency, the stoic faith and patience, and a firmness of will and purpose unconquerable." By which it is clear that Vallandigham, like King Richard, knew a man when he saw him.

The latest phase of the transaction between the Pennsylvania Central and the New Jersey roads is a movement in the Philadelphia restraining the parties from consummating Councils looking to an injunction by that city, the lease, the reason urged in support of such a step being that the leasing of the New Jersey Roads by the Central would transfer from Philadelphia to New York the business which the former city now has by the leasing road, and make New York the commercial center. This is opposition from an unexpected quarter.

Cartwright & McCord, of Albany, have got their soap factory at work, and last week they made eight hundred boxes of soap, or about fourteen thousand pounds. Hereafter they expect to be able to turn out this amount of soap every week.

The Wilmington (N C) Journal expresses a willingness to act with the Democrats of the North in the coming political contest, but it demands, like many other Southern papers, that there shall be no condemnation of the South for the part it took in the rebellion.
